BREAK CARTS.—I have as good a break cart as you ever saw, hand-made, with the best springs, with cushion seat and straps ready to hold to for $25. Don't buy until you see these carts. T. S. SHROFF.

Buy your spring suit from Brother & Brother.

There was a little frost in the lowlands Monday morning.

Born, April 27, to John Robinson and wife, of Prickly Ash, a son.

The finest tomato plants you ever saw for sale at Mrs. Wells' Restaurant.

Lee Goodpaster and John L. Vice bought four aged mules in Morgan county last week for $500.

Tobacco Looking Up.—Local buyers the past week offered an advance of one to two cents per pound and bought some at that advance on previous offers.

Henry Wells was acquitted at his examining trial before Judge Daugherty Thursday on the charge of killing Kemp Amos at Sharpsburg. Both were colored men from Carlisle.

The season is about here to set out tobacco, and those that have their crops with the Bemis tobacco setter have met with best success. You had best figure with "Bud" Brother for one.

RALPH BINGHAM.—The intubable Ralph Bingham will give one of his unique entertainments at the Court-house here Saturday night, May 6. Everybody will be delighted to hear him again. The entertainment will begin at 8:15.

At Flat Creek, Sunday, the baseball team was defeated in thirteen-inning game by Flat Creek by score of 10 to 9. Batteries: Owingsville—Stephens and Sheehan; Flat Creek—3 pitchers and catcher.

The prospect for a large crop of tobacco plants was never better, and now is the best time to figure on a tobacco setter. "Bud" Brother sells the Bemis and it really is the only setter offered that will do the work—especially on rolling or hill-side land.

Tobacco Sales.—George A. Peed made the following purchases of tobacco: on Taylor's Branch the crop of John Latham and tenant Ed Hart at St. Latham; and on the crop of Alfred Stephens at Prickly Ash, John C. Coy's at 74c; A. K. Coy's at 81c.

CALL AND SETTLE.—Arasmith & Robertson having dissolved partnership and turned stock over to W. R. Peters, Jr., to close out, cost for cash or produce, and books also, will ask all owing us to call and settle your account; it will be put in the hands of a lawyer to wind up after thirty days. ARASMITH & ROBERTSON, Bethel, Ky.

UNCLAIMED LETTERS.—Remaining in Owingsville postoffice May 1, 1905: Miss Nannie Catlett, A. S. Estill, Mr. and Mrs. L. Finch, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Clark, Joe T. New, Mrs. Kittie Abrams, Mrs. Sarah B. Reed, Willie Wilson. Persons calling for above letters please say "advertised."

J. A. BARNES, P. M.

FIRE ALARM.—An alarm of fire was sounded at 4:20 p. m. Monday. Fire was found in three different buildings and the house used at livery stable. The horses and vehicles were promptly brought out of the building and the house used in washing vehicles was attached to the pump. The fire was then put out before the fire engine could be got in working order. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

CIRCUIT COURT DOCKET.—Bath Circuit Court begins Monday, May 8. The docket is made up as follows: Old Equity cases 60, New Equity cases 19, Old Ordinary cases 14, New Ordinary cases 6, Old Common Pleas cases 71, New Common Pleas cases 39; felony cases standing for trial 5, felony cases held on examining trial to await action of grand jury 5, Common Pleas of Ky. vs. Flen Conner set for 2d day; same vs. Jas. Riddle, 3d day; same vs. Robt. Barkley, 4th day; same vs. Tom McCarty, 5th day.

LETTER FROM SEDAN, OKLA., April 26, 1905.—OUTLOOK: To my old Kentucky friends, greeting. I am alive and well. I wish to tell you something about this country. I like it very much. Crop prospects are fine. The wheat acreage is not large, however on account of the drought last fall. There is a large acreage of oats and the plants are six inches high. Corn is about all up, the acreage being very large. Less cotton than last year will be raised on account of the lower price.

About nine inches of rain has fallen during April to date. We had a cold winter, but an early spring.

I am farming this year, the first since I left Kentucky.

I am perfectly satisfied and the longer I stay the better I like it. I believe it will soon be one of the best States in the West, for the land is good, we have good schools all over the Territory, and the country is being developed rapidly. Land is reasonably cheap here and wages are good, making it the best country I know of for a poor man. I would advise all young men that work on a farm to come West, where they can get something for their work. A good man can get $1 per day and board all summer and fall. That beats 50c a day.

Good luck to all my Ky. friends and The Outlook, for the latter is a pleasant caller at our home every Saturday evening.

Yours, W. L. PARKER.

Wm. Atchison has bought out the interest of his partner Bigo Wells in the livery stable.

Senator Jo C. S. Blackburn is announced to speak at the Court-house here next Monday (County Court day).

EXCHANGE IT.—If you have an old buggy or car, we will trade it for a new one. We need some old buggies or cars.

T. S. SHROFF.

The rains came just at the proper time to keep the ground too wet to work and the farmers are behind with their planting operations.

BACK TO THE MOUNTAINS.—Bon-B. Bigstaff, after acting as Chaplain at the Confederate Home, at Peewee Valley, for several weeks, has gone back to his religious work in the mountains, where he has headquarters at Frozen, Breathitt county.

DIED OF CONSUMPTION.—Elva Carter, of color, aged 18 years, daughter of Cornelius Carter, a thrifty and respected colored man of near Forge Hill, died Thursday of consumption and was buried Friday in Montgomery county. The family have the sympathy of their many friends.

BUGGIES SOLD.—T. S. Shroff has sold the following persons buggies or carts since April 21: Owingsville precinct—J. B. Goodpaster, B. F. Perry, Sr., Gabe Suedgar, Nathaniel Markland, Mrs. William Reed.

Wilmington precinct—James L. Barber, Omar Barber, Shelby Stephens, Thomas Gudgeon.

South Sharpsburg precinct—Estes Hendrix, Le Davis.

Bethel precinct—John Webb, Jr., Warren Rodgers.

Sharpsburg precinct—O. S. Bromberg.

Preston precinct—George M. Ewing, Mildred Station.

Licking Union precinct—Herby McKinnis.

Bourbon County—Mason E. Jones, Montgomery Co.—Bartford Goodan.

OLD PSALM BOOK.—Mrs. Harmon A. Lyter has an old psalm book that is a curiosity in the old book line. It was printed in Edinburgh in 1793 and is a metrical version of the Psalms of David approved by the Church of Scotland, as the title page states. As all the s's except final ones are of the shape of an f without the cross bar it is difficult to understand until the reader gets the hang of it. The book belongs to Mrs. Lyter's grand-father Wm. Hamilton, whose name and that of John Hamilton are written on a fly leaf under date of August 11, 1805. It was probably brought from Scotland by Mr. Hamilton.

THE CONCERT.—Miss Esther Margolen, of Paris, Ky., assisted by Miss Sarah Grinnan, pianist, of Paris; Misses Ollie Pigg, cornetist, and Amanda Maul, vocal soloist, of Lexington, gave a concert at the Court-house on Thursday night. Miss Clara Louise Maul, of Lexington, accompanied them, but didn't take part in the concert. These young ladies are music teachers and occasionally give concerts at the neighboring towns as a diversion rather than for the purpose of making money. Each is skilled in her line. They made the mistake here of rendering a class of music best appreciated by cultivated musicians. Instead of suiting their programme to the popular taste, Miss Margolen is undoubtedly a very fine violinist. She played selections from opera and classical pieces and did it remarkably well. All readily believed that she could thrill them if she only hit on the right tune. She did that when she played "Old Kentucky Home" two parts at one time. As for the rest of her playing we all looked and listened, waiting for the thrill that never came. When "Il Trovatore" is played to an "Irish Washerwoman" audience the applause is rather apt to be perfunctory courtesy than heartfelt enthusiasm.

Miss Grinnan's piano playing was wholly unaccompanied with one exception. She had an unattractive instrument, but she showed that she understood the art.

Miss Pigg double-tongued and triple-tongued and brought a volume of tone from her cornet out of all proportion to her petite size. She played finely.

Miss Amanda Maul sang a number of airs, now with a "care-melodic whisper" and again with a mighty swell that nearly made the plastering crack. If she had just sung "Edinboro" or "Comin' Thro' the Rye" with the earnestness that she did some ambitious common-places she would have made the audience howl with delight.

Moral: When you invite a company with a bacon-and-beans appetite to your table don't feed them on bouillon and charlotte russe if you value that company's highest approval.

Savoyard's Wisdom.

[Louisville Post.]

Washington, April 17.—The Department of Justice and the Federal grand jury of Chicago are after the Beef Trust with a sharp stick, and the answer of the trust is an advance in the price of beef, mutton, veal and pork. This concern can do what it will with the meat market. Those pro-consuls Rome sent to squeeze tribute out of a conquered people had not more power over the rates of taxation than the beef trust has over the prices of meats. Pontius Pilate, Vespasian, Ventidius, Pompey, Cuspius Fadus and that layout farmed the taxes to publicans, and their yoke was galling almost beyond endurance.

We are not a conquered people. We do not owe Caesar tribute. His image and superscription are not on our coin. We are, in theory at least, a free people, and levy our own taxes through our own agents, freely chosen by ourselves. Our taxes are not "farmed," but every cent reaches the Treasury. It is not squandered on favorites—worthless women and more worthless men—despotism by any other name would be as galling.

The people are going to leave everything else alone until they attend to the trusts. If the constitution of the United States is not smashed in the shindy it will be next thing to a miracle. But that sacred instrument has been so battered and bruised the past few years that it is become used to insult and maltreatment.

Here is this Philippine question that ought to come on for trial and final judgment, but the people will not hear of it until they have smashed the trusts. Now that may take years—at the present rate of progress it will take forever. A junction against them is no good. A junction against them is hardly worth the paper it is written on. They do what they please, and their motto is "the public be damned."

But the people intend to force the administration to prosecute the warfare to the bitter end. The Philippines are forgot. So is the Monroe doctrine. So is the tariff. As for reciprocity, it is fast asleep and we shall hear little more of it until the country gets ready for free trade, which it will one of these fine days, when the people come to their senses. As for the railroad trust, that would have settled itself long ago if Congress had never passed a single law in reference to it.

Some of the faithful out in Iowa have been making some scurrilous remarks about the Hon. Pete Hepburn and his bill to discipline the railroads. They say he put just a little socialism in the thing as he thought the country would stand, and that he would not put any socialism in it at all if he had thought the Senate would agree to it, or if he had not believed the country would have raised a row if he had stood still and said nothing. They are also after Dolliver, who did all he could to have the Senate act, and he would not have been so far as to say something that might be tortured into a threat by a man skillful in interpreting Senatorial eloquence and political violence. Why don't Lorraines and Co. get after Allison? He is a Democrat, is not, and what he will never be—a leader of the Senate. If Mr. Allison had believed in the nonsense and the heresy of the railroad bill it would not have been left in the lurch it was. But Allison is a statesman, and let the deformed bridle, or rather turned it over to Steve Elkins to wet-nurse and that is the same thing. Why do not the new lights of political Iowa assail your Uncle Allison? They are afraid to—they know whom to go for.

The G. O. P. is not happy over this business, which is loaded with dynamite. There is no telling when it will explode, or whom it will most hurt. That the Democrats are headed straight for government ownership of all lines engaged in interstate commerce, is as certain as that the sun will rise tomorrow morning and set tomorrow evening. The South may be able to prevent it, but if the South does prevent it she will have to give her leaders some new orders. I am tired of Democrats going up and down the earth—especially Southern Democrats—boasting of the democracy of Theodore Roosevelt. I can't see it. I don't believe anybody else sees it. If he is a Democrat Samuel J. Tilden was not. The South does the voting—that is, the effective voting—for the Democratic party, and it is her duty to look after the old party and see if there is any of it left.

There is none of it left in Congress, so far as I know—all joined Roosevelt and Hepburn, and Esch and Townsend. The constitution of the United States is no restraint on them. They are bewildered, demoralized, disorganized, ruined. If the South goes the gait it is all over.

Old Pete Hepburn is one of the ablest debaters and one of the most eloquent orators Iowa ever sent to Congress. It is worth half a day's journey to hear him pronounce the words "United States." He does it with an intonation, an unctious enthusiasm, an emphasis that are marvelous and if you come to Washington next session go into one of the House galleries and stay there all day, if need be, and you will say that you are amply repaid if Uncle Pete should make a speech. He will say "United States" before he is done with it, and no other orator in the world can say it as he says it. Try it next winter.

This suggests Frye, of the Senate. Late there has grown up a controversy as to whether the term United States is plural or singular.

It is only a straw that shows the tendency of the wind. Now, Frye goes beyond that. He refuses to employ the definite article—he will not say "the" United States—he will say "that or other thing; but he speaks of the United States as he speaks of England or France or Spain. For instance, he would say: "United States maintain a consulate at Hong Kong."

It is a sign of patriotism. Maybe we common fellows will reach it some day.
